ENGINEER FELL ASLEEP. Collision Resulted and Fireman In

stantly Killed and Horribly Burned. Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 17.-A disas troug wreck occurred on the Fall Brook Ratt road, one mile above Jersey Shore June road, one mile above Jersey Shore Junetion at 4 o'cleck yesterday.

A south-bound freight train had orders to wait for three sections of a north-bound freight to pass, but the engineer of the south-bound train fell asleep and upon awakening miled out before the third section had passed. A head-end collision resulted.

William McQuade, aged twenty-one, unmarried, of Corning N. Y., fireman of the north-bound train, was crushed into the fire box and instantly killed. His body when recovered was burned beyond recognition.

Brakeman Daniel Kirkendall, of the same train, had a leg broken. Engineer Vallelly and Conductor Maynard Affen, the crew that made the mistake, jumped and rolled down an embankment and escaped with scratches.

The coroner's jury found Engineer Vallelly and Conductor Affen responsible for the wreck and the death of Fireman McQuade.

Divorce Granted His Wife. The announcement made in yesterday's telegraph disputches from Topeka, Kana, to the effect that Mrs. George Chandler.

to the effect that Mrs. George Chandler, wife of the ex-Assistant Secretary of the Interior, had secured a divorce, created a sensation in Washington political and social circles, where Mr. and airs. Cintesiar are well known.

The friends of the couple residing in this city were surprised upon learning that the domestic relations of Judge Chandler and his wife were not of the most pleasant and Judge Chandler and his wife have had rooms at No 1817 Thirteenth street north-west ever since the Judge was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Interior three years ago. Mrs. Chamiler has been at her home, in Kansas, since June last. Cruelty home, in Kansas, since Jone last. Creaty is the ground alleged for divorce. Judge Chandler was seen last evening by a Times reporter and interrogated as to the the cause of the disagreement between bim-self and wife. He stated that he had never self and wife. He stated that he had never seen the complaint filed in the Kanasa court by his wife's attorney, and did not know what allegations it contained. As to the charge of criefly he never struck or mistreated his wife. Harsh words may have passed at times, which under the laws of Kanasa is considered cruelty and just grounds for an action for divorce. He would deed property in Kanasa to his wife, which would assure her a comfortable living. The story of their differences was a long one, was none of the public's affair, and he would not further discuss the matter for publication. He had never filed anaction fordivorce in the District, asstated, Judge Chandler will not test the validity of the divorce.

Judge Chandler will not test the validity of the divorce.

Judge Chandler is well and favorably known in Kansas politics, where he has often been honored by the citizens of the Grasshopper State. He was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Interior during President Harrison's administration. His law offices in this city are in the McGill Building, No. 998 G street northwest.

"GOD STAYED HER HANDS." That Was Rachel Green's Excuse for Not Committing Suicide.

That Was Rachel Green's Excuse for Not Committing Suicide.

Destitution, liness, and despair prompted Mrs. Rachel Green, colored, of Jackson alley northwest, to bid farewell to ber family Saturday and seek eternal rest under the waters of the Potomac, but as she stood on the bank of the river, near the Washington end of the Anacostia Bridge, late last light, and raised her hands preparatory to the plunge, her courage failed her, or as she told The Times, "God stayed her hands."

Saturday at 11 o'clock she told her daughter, Lizzie, whose husband died a year ago, that she would have to give up the strangle for life. She left the house and after Lizzie had recovered from her fit of weeping she reported the leather of the police of the Sixth precinct. The case was telephoned to each precinct, but the woman was not apprehended. It was madmight when any returned to her home in the alley. She told The Times that her finishand died eleven years ago, that her cuidren, such of them as were old enough to work, could not get employment, and her little grandchild, about six years old, had to be fed. The house rent was due and the landford had investened ejectment.

She had to support excepting what she could earn by scrubing and doing odd jobs in white people's houses. Those for whom she worked usually paid her in victuals. She pointed to a plateful of bread crusts, which were all the family would have for breakfast. The house was practically devoid of furniture or comfort. On every side was evidence of dire poverty and want. Yes, she had gone to the river with the intention of jumping, but as she was about to do this, "God stayed her hands."

Ten Millions of Property and Five Thousand Lives Saved.

Annual Report of the Superintendent Shows It to Have Been the Services Banner Year.

The annual report of the general superintendent of the Life Saving Service just iscal year the number of disasters within the scope of the service exceeded that of any previous year by seventy-nine. This large excess is in a measure found to be due to the extension of the service, but principally to the conditions of weather which prevailed during the year.

While the work of the service is thus shown to have increased, it is satisfactory to know that the record of the year shows a smaller proportion of loss, it both life and property than any previous year since the general extension of the service, except, as regards life, the year 1888, and as regards property, the year 1884.

At the close of the last fiscal year the establishment emisraced 251 stations—186 being on the Atlantic, 53 on the lakes, 18 on the Pacific, and one at the falls of the Onio, at Louisville, Ky.
